SOUTHWEST IOWA TEACHERS

Six Hundred of Them Hear Speeches on Educational Tenica

Heredity-Self-Estrangement of the Child - Round Table Sessions.

The teachers attending the meeting of he Southwestern Iowa Teachers' association, and the registration lists showed that there were nearly 600 of them, put in a busy day Friday. Three sessions, interspersed with a reception, each session presenting a lengthy program, comprised the day's work.

The morning program included addresses by Superintendent Miles of the State In-dustrial School for Boys at Eldora; President Beardshear of the State Agricultural college at Ames, and President Clark of the State Normal school at Peru, Neb. The general session in the afternoon was devoted in part to a lecture by Dr. A. E. Winship of Boston, editor of the Educational Review, and the round-table meetings were held. Then followed the informal reception given the visitors by the city teachers. The evening program consisted of a lecture by Prof. John B. De Motte of Greencastle, Ind.

At the close of the afternoon session a number of the teachers from the farthest points left for their homes. The city schools were closed to enable the teachers to have the benefit of the sessions.

An interesting feature of the morning session was the address by Superintendent B. J. Miles of the State Industrial School for Boys at Eldora on "The Problem of the Someone has aptly said that the best time to begin the reformation of a bad boy is with his grandparents, in their very early years. This," he said, "was all very well in theory, but they all knew that it was in-applicable and impossible in practice."

From Evil Environments.

Continuing, he said: "We know that a much larger per cent of incorrigibles come from families of moral degradation, where the environments are bad, than from those of the better class, and yet there are enough coming from good families where the environments are of the best and where there is no taint of ancestral degeneracy to prove conclusively that incorrigibility is not always because of a degenerate heritage or bad surroundings in early life. To make a list of causes for juvenile delinquency we should begin with inherited physical and moral degeneracy and then, see the following places:

Calfee, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church. The groom is deputy clerk of the courts in Lincoln. the over-religious parent that forgets he was once a boy and insists on eliminating from the young life of his boy the popular and harmless amusements of the present day; bad literature, cigarettes, intoxicants immoral shows, secret vices, idleness, poverty and absence from the public school. "It is an easy task," he said, "to point out the causes and see the effects, but it is an Herculean task to find and apply a rem#### edy that will cure. Seeking Remedies.

"With the moral delinquent we must try one remedy after another until we find something that will secure his attention. arrest his downward progress and save him from destruction. It has been said that a co-operation of parent, teacher, preacher and police would eliminate the bad boy and solve the problem. This may be true in heory, but in practice the defects are uickly discovered."

The speaker suggested the juvenile reormatory as the best means to the end ought. Such an institution, he said, was n emergency hospital for the prompt, enrgetic and heroic treatment of the morally delinquent boy after other means have failed. The reformatory, he contended, can and does restrain and educate if it does not in all cases work a reformation. Society is protected while the boy sojourns in the chool and if he remains the average time -which is about three years-he will have fair common school education and a trade, and these, he said, were the best cafeguards that he knew of against criminality.

Juvenile Reformatory.

The juvenile reformatory, he asserted, was a legitimate part of the public school system. The state assumes this responsibility as a duty, the same as it does that of the public school. The reformatory, he maintained, was in no sense a penal institution; punishment for crime was not thought of in its inception. It was only a desire to make practical a method of salvation from crime, to prevent the boy from becoming a criminal, to furnish a refuge for those in danger of falling. Mr. Miles concluded his address, which secured the closest attention and evident interest of his audience, with a short description of the methods adopted at the Eldora school and their results. Superintendent Sheakley of Des Moines, who led the discussion, said he agreed with Superintendent Miles in the main, but he did not place much stock in heredity as a cause-it was, in his opinion, but a lame excuse. Environment was the chief cause, he thought, of youthful delinquency, and in a majority of cases the parents were to and compulsory education. He believed the schools should have more teachers and less pupils to each teacher, so that the teacher could give more time to a boy or girl who might show traits of incorrigibility. He believed that half the school day would be sufficient for the regular studies while the other half could be devoted to manual training, music, the arts, nature study, etc., that would tend to elevate the pupil. The address of President Beardshear of Ames Agricultural college on "The Selfestrangement of the Child" was a scholarly effort. President Clark of the Nebraska State Normal school spoke on "Suggestion in Education," his address being brimful of good suggestions for the teacher to bear in mind and consider. Round Table Sessions.

The round-table sessions in the afternoon were divided into sections, the rural school section being under the leadership of Sup-erintendent J. C. Bennett of Mount Ayr, the primary under the leadership of Miss Alice Wilson of Des Moines, the grammer de-age of Danison, the high school section under Principal J. E. Pearson of Red Oak, INHERITANCE TAX DECISION and the principals' round-table under the leadership of Principal M. E. Crosler of

At the close of the round-wave meetings the visitors gathered in the gymnasium, which was prettily decorated, and were given an informal reception by the city teachers, light refreshments being served. Prof. De Motte was unable to give his lecture on "The Harp of the Senses" last evening. A large audience had assembled to hear him, but at the last moment it was discovered that the most important portions of the stereopticon paraphernalis were missing. They were later discovered to be in Omaha, but too late for him to give the lecture. After considerable delay Dr. Winship of Boston was prevailed upon to fill in the evening, which he did by lecturing in a most delightful manner upon Longfellow and Lowell. The committee offered to refund the price of admission, but few availed themselves of the offer, remaining to hear Dr. Winship. The meeting will close with this morning's session, at which Hon, R. C. Barrett, state superintendent of public instruction, will deliver an address and Dr. Arnold Tompkins of Chicago lecture on "The Beautiful as a Universal Element in Education." At this session officers will be elected and the place of meeting for next year selected.

Hunters Are Out for Quall-Smallpox Among the Indiana is Not to Serious-Report of Historical Department.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Nov. 1 .- (Special.) - The collateral inheritance tax law has been the cause of a great deal of uncertainty in the matter of its application and Attorney General Mullan today rendered a decision to the treasurer of state on one point which will be of value to the state. He held that the state of Iowa can collect the collateral inheritance tax on an estate in lows which was owned by a person in Pennsylvania and left to collateral heirs in that state. The question was raised by the state tressurer's office and the executor of the estate of William Huber of Chambersburg. Pa. The treasurer believed the tax would apply, but the executor would not have it so. That part of the cetate in Iowa and also several town lots in Council Bluffs. The state treasurer has as yet made no estimate of the value of the estate in Iowa, but the tax will be considerable. The will of the deceased provided that the property should LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER be sold and divided among collateral heirs in Pennsylvania.

Telephone Case Considered.

Hunters Go for Quail.

The open season for quall in Iowa commenced today and, as it lasts for but one month, the hunters started out from here in large numbers. The sportsmen say that the number of quail in the brush along the rivers is larger this year than usual. Reports from the chicken shooting indicate that there are very few prairie chickens left in the state except in the northern counties.

Indian Smallpox Cases.

Indian Agent Malin, in charge of the Sacs and Foxes in Tama county, has is-sued a statement in which he deprecates the sensational statements which have been published in regard to the smallpox outbreak on the reservation. He states that all the deaths from smallpox had been reported to him in accordance with the rules and the causes of death had been variously consumption. The examination by a member of the State Board of Health on the 23d of October showed seven cases then Charles Bruner and Frank Burwell on the reservation. Agent Malin concludes

"Early in September I had received instructions from the Indian department to vaccinate all the Indians at the camp, and at the time, and before this reported out-Charles Bruner and Frank Burwell, while break, they were coming in every day to seining in Cut-Off lake, were arrested about have the operation performed. The men's nets were seized and and had been reported by their father as sequence.

"There has been but one death reported since the 20th and that was not caused by smallpox. I have made daily inquiries as to the conditions at the camp and the Indians insist that no new cases have de veloped and that all the cases reported are getting well. Many of the older Indians still insist that there has been no smallpox on the reservation and that the health of the camp is normal. "There has been no specific disease o any kind at the school since its opening on the 1st of September and the health of the pupils is as near perfect as may be found in the same number of children in any school anywhere."

Report of Historical Department.

The biennial report of the state historical department was filed today. In his report Curator Aldrich recommends that the building be completed and calls attention to the need of more room and the growing importance of the department. The present building, completed less than two years ago, is now filled to overflowing with historical matter and there is great need of more room. The department has received many donations since it has been able to care for papers and books and relics and is now regarded as one of the most valuable in the state.

SOCIAL POSITION

Makes no Difference. Women are All Alike. No Matter What Their Station in Life May Be. All Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If she is one of the favored daughters of wealth,—if she belongs even to the realm of the "well-to-do,"—or—if she belongs to the unnumbered thousands who must work in order to live—the story is just the same; all suffer from about the same cause, and in this suffering "peculiar to women," all reach the same level, and all are of the same family.

When a woman is nervous and irritable, head and back ache, feels tired all the time, loses sleep and appetite, has pains in groins, bearing down sensation, whites and irregularities, she is not "worn out," but

Such symptoms tell her that a womb trouble is imminent, and she cannot act too promptly if she values her future comfort and happiness.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., as thousands do.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells Mrs. Scott How to be Cured.
